A CMAJ Call for Medical Images: Clinical Vistas

Send us your interesting clinical images!

Through scopes and scanners, on film and computer screens, with ultrasonography and microscopy, clinicians capture stunning images of illness and healing. CMAJ invites you to share your normally privy visual perspectives on anatomy, pathology, diagnostic procedures and therapeutic techniques. Let colleagues outside your specialty take a close look at the characteristic signs of rare conditions (Kayser-Fleischer rings in Wilson's disease) or the interior marvels of your clinical terrain (colonoscopic view of an adenomatous polyp). We're also interested in images that take a wider angle on the context of care (a recently cord-clamped newborn on a cold steel scale). If you have original, unpublished images that are beautiful or informative, rare or classic, we'd like to include them in CMAJ's Clinical Vistas.
