Drysdale, Alan Alastair MacDougall, Halifax; Dalhousie University, 1955, anaesthesia. Died May 13, 2006, aged 76. "He is survived by his wife, Myrla, his children, Carolyn (Rick) Buhr, Susan (Paul) Brousseau, Diane (Marvin Jordan), Donald (Jennifer), Scott (Ellen), 12 grandchildren, sisters, Margaret Bowering and Isabel Curren, and brother, Ian. He was predeceased by brothers, Everett and Ronald. Alan was highly regarded by colleagues, students, medical staff and patients for his proficiency in his field, but even more so for his integrity, the care and compassion he showed to all, and his genuine interest in others. The professional honour of which he was most proud was the Humanitarian Anesthetist Award, a special recognition given to him by the anaesthesia residents in 1985."

Eydt, John Norman, Hamilton; University of Western Ontario, 1944, internal medicine. Died May 31, 2006, aged 86. "John was the adored husband and true partner of Joan, his wife of 51 years. Together they raised 4 wonderful sons: John (Danielle), Peter (Reiko), Mark and Christopher, who deeply mourn his loss. He will be truly missed by his grandchildren, Gabriel, Emille, Olivier and Rena. He will be lovingly remembered by his sister Helen Reesor. John was a skilled diagnostician, a conscientious practitioner and a doctor who was never too busy to spend extra time with his patients."
