

Prescribing marijuana? You have more than 200 options

Roger Collier, CMAJ

July 17, 2014

There are about 220 types of cannabis mentioned on the websites of Canada's 13 licensed medical marijuana growers. Several growers name their products after their companies. Others use names that resemble pharmaceutical names or allude to therapeutic benefits. Many growers, however, are using recreational names. They might want to reconsider that choice if they want the medical community to take them seriously, say health care branding experts.

Link to full infographic: Medical marijuana strains, from Afghani to Yorkshire

DOI:10.1503/cmaj.109-4849